ADDENDA ET CORRIGENDA.

VOL. VIII.

p. 85, line 24, for "p. 27," read "p. 100."
p. 89, line 2, for "pp. 30, 41, 67, 61," read "pp. 103, 114, 130, 134."
p. 96, last line, for "p. 42," read "p. 115."
p. 97, line 14, for "pp. 33, 47," read "pp. 106, 120."
p. 114, line 3, for "pastall," read "Pascall."
p. 127, Capel; i.e. Capel le Ferne.
p. 134, line 17, for "T of tyling," read "C of tyling."
p. 151, line 6, for "saf," read "staff."

VOL. IX.

p. lix, line 4, for "Fourteenth," read "Fifteenth."
p. lxxiv, line 4, "Wardwell," says Mr. Hussey, is a modern mis-spelling of "Wadwell" (or Wadewell). Coins have been found on the spot referred to, near Teynham Station, which I have heard, on good authority, were of silver (Roman, I presume), and came into the possession of a silversmith at Faversham.

p. cvii, line 32, "sluice," the provincial name is "penstock."
p. cxiv, line 12, Mr. Hussey remembers that there was a well in the great kitchen.

Mr. Roach Smith says that peculiar interest arises from the fact that the coins of these contemporary sovereigns, Cunobeline and Augustus, were found together. Such alliance had never before been known, or at least has never been recorded. Mr. Geo. Payne, Jun., states that a third gold coin of Cunobeline has since been found in the same garden, at Tunstall; it was of the same type as figure 2, in Vol. IX., p. 299.
