

WILLIAM LAMBARDE'S PEDIGREE NOTES.

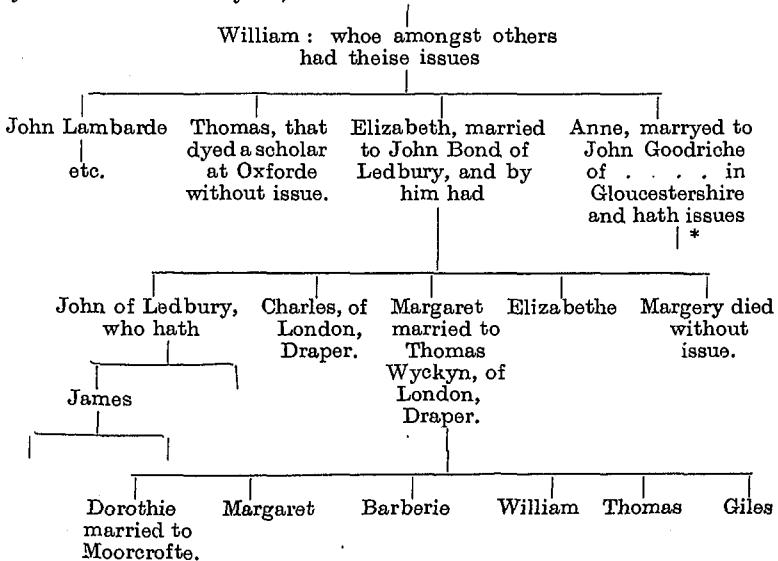

Communicated by

BRIGADIER GENERAL FANE LAMBARDE, C.M.G., D.S.O.

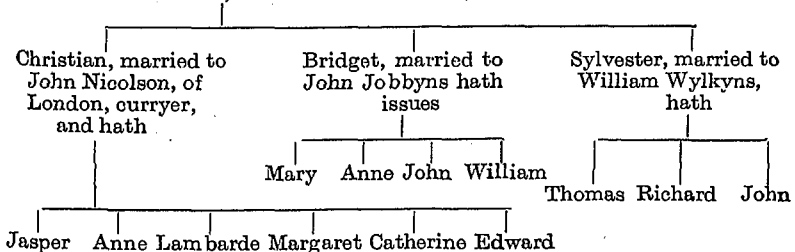

AMONGST his notes, William Lambarde left a few connected with the pedigrees of his own, or his wives' relations. He married three times: first, on 11th September, 1570, Jane Multon, who died 21st September, 1573; second, on 14th March, 1582-3, Sylvester Dene, who died 1st September, 1587; and third, on 13th April, 1592, Margaret Payne, who survived him. For these see Arch. Cant., Vol. V. His notes are as follow:—

1. Pedigree Note by William Lambarde, 1586.

Thomas Lumbarde (alias Lambarde) of Ledbury in Herefordshire that lyved after 29th Henry VI, had issue

3. Meryam, of Boughton Monchelsey, Mason.

4. John Payne, of Frittenden, yeoman, married Jane the daughter of Robert Coucheman, of Frittenden, clothyer

NOTES TO THE ABOVE.

Particulars of the wives of William Lambarde may be found in the Lambarde Diary published in Vol. II of Misc. Gen. et Heraldica. In Pedigree No. 1, the descent from John Lambarde is printed in Arch. Can., Vol. V. In it, it may be noted that Giles, the brother of William, married Margaret Stevenson who afterwards married Humphrey Wyndham. I do not know if there was any connection between her and the Stevenson of Pedigree No. 2. I have not collated Pedigree No. 3 with the History of the Kentish family of Merriam in the Society's Library at Maidstone, which is noted in Arch. Cant., Vol. XXVII. This name appears several times in the Goudhurst Parish Registers. Pedigree No. 6 corrects and amplifies both Hasted and Berry. Hasted gives an earlier reference to the Woodwardes under Hadlow. In Arch. Cant., Vol. XVI, is a reference to their house at Ashford. And in Vol. XXVIII is a note to the effect that Edward Woodward who died in 1528 wishes to be buried beside his father in Ashford Church. Again in Vol. XXXI, in Notes from the lost "Register of Stoke," are many entries connected with the Wylkyns family referred to here both in Pedigrees No. 1 and No. 6. The marriage in 1576 of George Wilkins to Elizabeth Woodward is interesting, as showing, apparently, a more intimate connection between the families than merely the transference of property referred to in Pedigree No. 6. The last of the Multon family married a daughter of Whettenhall of Peckham—this in connection with Pedigree No. 2.

Edward Woodward died in 1528 and his widow married Edward White; and their grand daughter Sylvester was William Lambarde's second wife.
