

KENT BIBLIOGRAPHY, 1973-74

- *A. Campbell (Ed.), Anglo-Saxon Charters I: Charters of Rochester, Oxford, 1973.
- *A. P. Detsicas and S. Hawkes, 'Finds from the Anglo-Saxon Cemetery at Eccles, Kent', Antiq. Journ., liii (1973), 281-6.
- *A. C. Hogarth, 'Structural Features in Anglo-Saxon Graves', Arch. Journ., cxxx (1973), 104-19.
- *D. B. Kelly and J. N. L. Myres, 'A fifth-century Anglo-Saxon Pot from Canterbury', Antiq. Journ., liii (1973), 77-8.
- *C. A. Raleigh Radford, 'Pre-Conquest Minster Churches', Arch. Journ., cxxx (1973), 120-40.
- J. K. St. Joseph, 'Air Reconnaissance: recent Results, 35', Antiquity, xlviii (1974), 213-15. (Eastry—possible Anglo-Saxon Cemetery).
- *M. J. Swanton, The Spearheads of the Anglo-Saxon Settlements, Royal Archaeological Institute, 1973.
- R. J. Ninnis, 'The Slabs and Brasses at Stone, near Dartford, Kent', Trans. Mon. Brass Soc., xi (1970), 101-11.
- R. J. Ninnis, 'The Rychers Monument at Wrotham, Kent', Trans. Mon. Brass Soc., xi (1970), 112-16.
- *Ian Bethune, The Church of The Holy Trinity, Milton Regis, Sittingbourne, 1973.
- R. H. Thompson, 'John Boxer and the nineteenth-century Silver Tokens of Kent', Brit. Num. Journ., xli (1972), 159-67.
- *F. Hull (Ed.), Catalogue of Estate Maps 1590-1840 in the Kent County Archives Office, Maidstone, Kent County Council, 1973.

Books and journals marked with an asterisk are in the Society's library.

D. B. KELLY

Kent Archaeological Society is a registered charity number 223382

© Kent Archaeological Society